Extract of a Letter from Captain Sir William Sidney Smith, to Mr. Nepean, dated Tigre, off Tripoly, in Syria, the 2d of April, 1799.

I Beg Leave to transmit for the Information of my Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, a Copy of my Report to the Right Honorable Earl of St. Vincent, of late Events in this Quarter.

Tigre, off St. John d'Acre, the 25d March, 1799.

MY LORD,

I Have the Honor to inform you that, in consequence of Intelligence from Gezar Pacha, Governor of Syria, of the Incursion of General Buonaparte's Army into that Province, and his Approach to its Capital, Acre, I hastened with a Portion of the Naval Force under my Orders to its Relief, and had the Satisfaction to arrive there Two Days before the Enemy made his Appearance.

Much was done in this Interval under the Direction of Captain Miller, of the Theseus, and Colonel Phelypeaux, towards putting the Place in a better State of Defence, to resist the Attack of an European Army; and the Presence of a British Naval Force appeared to encourage and decide the Pacha and his Troops to make a vigorous Resistance.

The Enemy's Advanced Guard was discovered at the Foot of Mount Carmel, in the Night of the 17th, by the Tigre's Guard Boats: these Troops, not expecting to find a Naval Force of any Description in Syria, took up their Ground close to the Water Side, and were consequently exposed to the Fire of Grape Shot from the Boats, which put them to the Rout the Instant it opened upon them and obliged them to retire precipitately up the Side of the Mount. The Main Body of the Army, finding the Road between the Sea and Mount Carmel thus expoſed, came in by that of Nazareth, and inveſted the Town of Acre to the Eaſt, but not without being much baraſſed by the Samaritan Arabs, who are even more inimical to the French than the Egyptians, and better armed. As the Enemy returned our Fire by Muſketry only, it was evident they had not brought Cannon with them, which were therefore to be expected by Sea, and Meaſures were taken accordingly for intercepting them; the Theſeus was already detached off Jaffa (Joppa). The Enemy's Flotilla which came in from Sea fell in with and captured the Torride, and was coming round Mount Carmel, when it was diſcovered from the Tigre, conſiſting of a Corvette and Nine Sail of Gun Veſſels; on ſeeing us they hauled off. The Alacrity of the Ship's Company in making ſail after them was highly praiſeworthy; our Guns ſoon reached them, and Seven, as per incloſed Liſt, ſtruck; the Corvette containing Buonaparte's private Property, and Two ſmall Veſſels eſcaped, ſince it became an Object to ſecure the Prizes without chacing further; their Cargoes conſiſting of the Battering Train of Artillery, Ammunition, Platforms, &c. deſtined for the Siege of Acre being much wanted for its Defence. The Prizes were accordingly anchored off the Town, manned from the Ships, and immediately employed in haraſſing the Enemy's Poſts, impeding his Approaches, and covering the Ship's Boats ſent further in Shore to cut off his Supplies of Proviſions conveyed Coaſtwiſe. They have been conſtantly occupied in theſe Services for theſe Five Days and Nights paſt; and ſuch has been the Zeal of their Crews, that they requeſted not to be relieved, after many Hours exceſſive Labour at their Guns and Oars. I am ſorry to ſay that we have met with ſome Loſs, as per incloſed Liſt, which, however, is balanced by greater on the Part of the Enemy, by the Encouragement given to the Turkiſh Troops from our Example, and by the Time that is gained for the Arrival of a ſufficient Force to render Buonaparte's whole Project abortive. I have had Reaſon to be perfectly ſatisfied with the Gallantry and Perſeverance of Lieutenants Buſhby, Inglefield, Knight, Stokes, and Lieutenant Burton, of the Marines, and of the Petty Officers and Men under their Orders.

I have the Honor to be, &c.

Extract of a Letter from Sir Morton Eden, dated Vienna, June 4, 1799.

I Have the Honor of incloſing to your Lordſhip, Two Extraordinary Gazettes of this Place, the One with a Supplement publiſhed Yeſterday Evening, the other this Day.

Vienna, June 3, 1799.

GENERAL BARON KRAY has ſent Lieutenant Diſeriſki, of the Regiment of Nauendorf, with the Intelligence of the Capture of the Citadel of Ferrara on the 23d of May.

Major-General Count Klenau ſtates in his Report, that not having ſucceeded in his Endeavours, when he took Poſſeſſion of the Town, to make the Enemy evacuate the Citadel, a regular Pentagon in perfect Repair, abundantly ſupplied with Artillery, Ammunition, and Proviſions, he was induced to direct Colonel Oreſkovich to order Captain Victora of the Artillery to erect two Batteries; which Work was carried on with ſo much Activity and Spirit, that they were finiſhed in the Evening of the 22d.

On the 23d, at Three o'Clock in the Morning, the Enemy had already evacuated the Town, which General Klenau garriſoned with the Light Battalion of Bach. At Eight o'Clock Count Klenau ſummoned the Commandant of the Fortreſs to ſurrender, but a negative Anſwer was returned.

The Batteries being ready, and the Artillery and Ammunition having been conveyed into them at Day-break, General Klenau ordered Shells to be thrown both from Mortars and Howitzers into the Citadel. Two Magazines in the Fortreſs having caught Fire, the Commandant was ſummoned a ſecond Time, and after ſome Delay, a Flag of Truce was ſent about Nine o'Clock in the Evening with Propoſals of Capitulation, which were concluded at One o'Clock in the Morning. The Enemy's Fire killed Two Privates of the Artillery, and wounded an Artificer.

On the 24th in the Morning the Copies of Capitulation were exchanged, Hoſtages mutually delivered up, and the Gate of Soccorſo was occupied an Hour after.

Seventy two new Braſs Cannon, with their Ammunition, and Six Months Proviſions, were found in the Fortreſs. The Hoſpital Stores alone are eſtimated at One Million Five Hundred Thouſand French Livres.

General Klenau gives Praiſe to Colonel Oreſkovich, Captain Victora, and Lieutenant Cantori, the Two latter of whom not only erected their Batteries One Hundred and Twenty Feet from the Covered Way, but by their Skill and Bravery alſo ſet Fire to the Enemy's Magazines, which obliged them ſo ſoon to ſurrender.

Count Alberti, Lieutenant Diferiſki, and others, diſtinguiſhed themſelves upon this Occaſion, but particularly Colonel Skall, who joined General Klenau as a Volunteer, and who proved both an able Engineer and an experienced Negotiator.

ALBERTY, Captain of the Auſtrian Engineers.

DESAU, Chief of Battalion Triqueurt.

SKALL, Colonel of the Quarter-Maſter General's Staff.

Confirmed by the Commandant of the Citadel of Ferrara. LA POINTE.

Ferrara, May 23, 1799.

As it is a Principle in the Auſtrian Service to diſtinguiſh brave Soldiers, I conſent to the Requeſt of the Commandant La Pointe, that Non-commiſſioned Officers may keep their Side-Arms; and I approve in general of the above Articles of Capitulation. Count KLENAU, Major-General.

The French Garriſon conſiſted of Fifteen Hundred and Twenty-five Men. Ammunition of every Sort, and in great Abundance, was found in the Place.

Whilſt this Operation was carried on againſt Ferrara, Lieutenant Grill was ordered upon another Expedition againſt Ravenna.

According to his Report of the 26th to General Kray, he embarked on the 24th, with Four Companies of the Regiment of Stuart, and entered Porto di Goro on the 25th.

On the 26th he landed his Troops at Porto Primaro with Two Three Pounders, having previouſly concerted upon the Mode of Attack with Major Pooz, the Commander of the Flotilla, and Jacobi, the Chief of the Inſurgents at Commachio.

Major Pooz entered the Canal of Ravenna with his Flotilla, and landed his Sailors. Lieutenant Grill marched to Ravenna through Pozzuolo with Three Companies and Two Pieces of Cannon; and Three Hundred of the Inſurgents marched at the ſame Time from St. Alberto.

On his Approach the Enemy ſhut their Gates and defended themſelves, but the Gates were ſoon forced open, and, after a ſhort Reſiſtance, the Enemy retreated by the Gate of Lugo. They loſt in their Retreat One Piece of Cannon, a Lieutenant-Colonel, an Officer, and about One Hundred Priſoners. Major Pooz was very active in the landing, and ſoon after the forcing of the Gates, he came to the Aſſiſtance of Lieutenant Grill with Sixty armed Sailors.

Lieutenants Stromada and Frankenbuſh, of the Regiment of Stuart, diſtinguiſhed themſelves particularly.

To ſupport the Expedition againſt Ravenna, General Kray alſo detached a Squadron of Huſſars, Two Companies of Infantry, and a Battalion of Light Infantry from Ferrara. The Capture of this Place ſecures the whole Road along the Coaſt, and the Subſiſtence of the Troops in the Province of Ferrara.

An Account from General Melas of the 21ſt May, from Candia, ſtates, that after ſome very fatiguing Marches, the Three Diviſions of Kaim, Frölich, and Zoph, with the Ruſſian Troops under the Command of General Förſter, had entered the Camp between Langaſco and Candia on the Seſia, where the Ruſſian General Roſenberg was already ſtationed with the Reſt of his Troops, who, together with General Vukaſſovich, occupied the ſtrong Points of Valenza and Caſale.

SUPPLEMENT.

CONFORMABLE to a Report from His Royal Highneſs, dated Head-Quarters, Winterthur, 28th May.

General Maſſena, Commander in Chief in Switzerland, made a general Attack on our Troops on the 25th, and occupied Frauenfeld at the Moment when Field-Marſhal-Lieutenant Petraſh, who had been detached by Field-Marſhal-Lieutenant Hotze, with the Dragoons of Kinſky, and the Brigade of General Prince Roſenberg, arrived there to occupy that Poſt. The Engagement laſted the whole Day with the greateſt Obſtinacy. Our Infantry, who had marched the Whole of the preceding Night, diſtinguiſhed themſelves by their intrepid Conduct notwithſtanding their Fatigue:—they were ſupported with Energy by the Dragoons of Kinſky's Regiment, under the Command of General Prince Roſenberg, who, on account of the Ground being unfavourable for Cavalry, ſerved on Foot in the hotteſt Fire with diſtinguiſhed Bravery. The Prince received a Contuſion, which, however, did not prevent him from continuing the Command.

The Loſs was conſiderable on both Sides. Night coming on put an End to the Engagement; but the Poſt was abandoned to the Enemy, who had attacked it with Three Diviſions.

Field-Marſhal-Lieutenant Petraſh highly commends the Steadineſs of the Regiments of Kaunitz and Gemmengin. He extols particularly the Bravery of General Prince Roſenberg, and the Skill diſplayed by him in availing himſelf of every Advantage that the Ground afforded. He praiſes, in the higheſt Terms, the Co-operation and the Efforts of the Officers of the Staff, and more eſpecially the Courage diſplayed by the whole Regiments during the Action.

The Number of Priſoners taken on this Occaſion, at firſt ſtated to be only Three Hundred Men, amounts to more than Five Hundred.

The Archduke Charles having determined to quit Fyn and Vyll, in order to attack the Enemy with the Left Wing of the Army, ordered Field-Marſhal-Lieutenant Prince Reuſs to march on the 26th with his Diviſion by Fyn, and form a Junction with Field-Marſhal-Lieutenant Hotze, for the Purpoſe of acting in Concert.

The Attack took place on the 27th, under the Orders of Field-Marſhal-Lieutenant Hotze and Prince Reuſs, whilſt the Right Wing of the Army remained upon the Fyn.

This Attack had the wiſhed-for Succeſs. The Enemy was driven back every where with conſiderable Loſs. All our Troops acting in Swiſſerland formed a Junction on the 27th near Winterthur and Heſſenbach, and our Columns arrived at Winterthur at Eleven o'Clock in the Morning. This obliged the Enemy to retreat to their Poſition near Zurich. We took on that Day Three Hundred Priſoners and Four Pieces of Cannon.

This firſt Succeſs of our Troops in Swiſſerland determined General Maſſena to recall General Lorche with his Diviſion, who was already on his March for Italy.

Vienna, June 4, 1799.

BY Accounts received from General Melas, of the 26th, it appears that the Two Diviſions of Kaim and Frölich had paſſed the Stura and advanced againſt Turin, the Capital of Piedmont, the Left Wing being placed upon the Reggio and Barco, and the Right behind Madonna Della Campagna.

The Suburb was occupied by Two Battalions of Giulay. The Ruſſian Troops, with the Diviſion of General Karaiczay alſo paſſed the Stura and the Dora, and placed themſelves in Front of La Certoſa, ſo that their Right Wing extended to Cruliaſko.

General Vukaſſovich, being reinforced with One Battalion, advanced on the Right Bank of the Po, and occupied the Heights; and at Nine o'Clock at Night every Thing was prepared for the Bombardment of the Town.

Lieutenant-Colonel and Adjutant-General Thelen arrived here Yeſterday Morning, with a farther Account from Field-Marſhal Suwarrow, that on the 27th General Vukaſſovich, who commanded the Advanced Guard, ſummoned the Town of Turin to ſurrender. Being refuſed, General Vukaſſovich ordered ſome Shells to be thrown into the Town, which ſet Fire to One of the Houſes near the Gate of the Po, when the well-diſpoſed Citizens, notwithſtanding the Oppoſition of the French, opened the ſaid Gate to General Vukaſſovich.

Two Squadrons of the Seventh Regiment of Huſſars immediately forced their Way into the Town, and purſued the Enemy as far as the Gate of the Citadel and made Forty Priſoners. In the mean Time General Vukaſſovich occupied the Town with his Infantry and opened the Reſt of the Gates. Captain Veczay took this Opportunity to purſue the Enemy with a Detachment of Cavalry and the Piquet of Giulay, in the Suburb of Palino, and took ſeveral Priſoners.

The Enemy having thrown themſelves into the Citadel, General Kaim's Diviſion was ordered to blockade it from witſtin the Town, and the Ruſſian General Prince Pankrazion with Five Battalions, Four Companies of Rangers, and Four Squadrons of Lewenohr from without.

The Diviſion of General Frölich has been ſtationed on the Road of Pignerolo near Orbaſſano, to which Place Zoph's Diviſion and the Reſt of the Ruſſian Troops have alſo been ordered.

Upwards of Three Hundred and Sixty Pieces of Cannon, a conſiderable Quantity of Ammunition and Stores of every Kind were found on the Ramparts and in the Arſenal. The Enemy left Two Hundred and Fifteen Sick in the Hoſpital. General Melas entertains no Doubt that he will be able to diſcover an additional Quantity of Stores.

Immediately upon our entering Turin, the Enemy cannonaded the Town from the Citadel for upwards of an Hour; and commenced the Cannonade again at Daybreak, which laſted till Five o'Clock. A Convention was afterwards agreed upon, by which the Enemy engaged to do no farther Injury to the Town.

General Seckendorff, who advanced with his Troops againſt Aleſſandria between the Orba and Bormida, whilſt the Ruſſian Lieutenant-General Schweikowſky inveſted the Citadel on the Left Bank of the Tanaro, is now blockading it from the Side of the Town, and his Advanced Poſts extend from the Serivia through Novi Caſine and Carantino to Maſſo upon the Tanaro; the Ruſſian Coſſacks being alſo ſtationed between Maſſo and Caſale.

It is reported that the Enemy are collecting their Main Force near Cuneo.

Downing-Street, June 22, 1799.

THE Emperor of Ruſſia having, as a Mark of Friendſhip towards His Majeſty, and of Eſteem and Regard towards His Majeſty's Naval Service, and particularly towards the Officers and Crews of the Ships who ſerved on the 1ſt of Auguſt, 1798, under the Command of Rear-Admiral Lord Nelſon, ſignified to His Majeſty's Miniſter at Peterſburgh his Deſire, that the Leander, of Fifty Guns, which, having been engaged in that Action, was, after a moſt gallant and diſtinguiſhed Reſiſtance, captured on its Paſſage Home by a French Ship of the Line, of 74 Guns, and has ſince been recaptured from the Enemy by His Imperial Majeſty's Arms at the Surrender of Corfu, ſhould be preſented to His Majeſty, in His Imperial Majeſty's Name, with a View to its being reſtored to His Naval Service.
